

Lymph Nodes are defined as small masses of lymph tissue. They are distributed throughout the body and connect via lymph channels.

It has long been implied that lymph nodes are extensions of T Lymphocytes and therefore are controlled by the Thymus. What a surprise to find that Lymph nodes are controlled by the bones with a direct connection to B Lymphocytes.

The most noticeable manifestation of these nodes is in the breasts. Over 50% of breast problems are actually lymph problems. We have long said that Breast Cancer starts in the bones and this becomes one of the confirmations.

LYMPH NODE COMPLEX 3-5

From the chart to the right and the chart shown under the Thymus it is easy to see that lymph nodes are found in far more than the breasts. These lymph nodes could play a complicating role in any of the lymphomas.

They could also cause or complicate a number of the diffuse cancers in the body. That normally happens with Follicular Malady.

Usually there are small tumors that take place in the miasmically diseased nodes. We have combined the diseases, the tumors and retrovirus into one remedy called Lymph Node Complex.
